

NEW STOCK SIGNED FOR CHAUTAUQUA

Committee is Appointed at Meeting Friday Night to Arrange for Permanent Organization.

PEOPLE PLEASED WITH TALENT

Program as a Whole is Pronounced as Unusually Strong.—Farmers Will be Given One Day.

The interest in the chautauqua is increasing and the citizens who are back of the movement are well pleased with the progress that has been made. The program has attracted considerable attention and is highly commended. Since the numbers of the program were arranged several persons who had taken no part in the chautauqua told the committee they desired to do what they could to make it a success and readily signed for one or more shares of stock. During the past week a number of additional persons have taken stock in the association, but several hundred dollars is still needed to complete the amount desired.

At the meeting held at the library last night a review of the work was given and some of the details were discussed. It was realized that while considerable work had been done it had not by any means been completed and that the best results could only be obtained by a larger number of people taking a more active interest in the movement. Thus far the work has fallen very largely upon a small number of men but they have willingly given their time to the cause. It was pointed out last night that in such a movement as this the suggestions of all the stockholders and persons interested are needed and all the stockholders are requested to be present at the next meeting Friday night at the library.

At the meeting last night a committee was appointed to arrange the details for the final organization of the association. It has been decided to incorporate under the laws of the state and in order to do this it will be necessary to select permanent officers and a board of directors. It was shown last night that the work could be divided among the citizens to a good advantage and in this way more rapid progress could be made and the task would not be so heavy upon the few men who have labored so zealously for the success of the movement since it was first proposed. The committee having charge of the stock subscriptions have quite a number of people to visit before Friday night, and it is believed that subscriptions for several hundred dollars can be obtained by that time.

One of the members of the committee said last night that he was pleased with the progress that had been accomplished but that it required a great deal of time to call upon every one who would assist and that the work could be greatly facilitated if such persons would volunteer their assistance. "This movement is for the people generally," he said, "and from the encouragement we have received on our rounds I see no reason why we could not have one of the largest and most successful chautauqua ever held in southern Indiana."

Several subscription papers have been circulated in the country districts and some of the farmers are responding very liberally for the chautauqua. The people are realizing more than ever before just what a chautauqua will mean for Seymour and that a such a program as has been arranged could not be given except under the chautauqua plan.

Some well known talent has been secured for the program, as care was used to book the best numbers possible for the money available. The following is the program and the time the different numbers will be given. The dates for each will be announced later.

Music Makers. Afternoon and night. Jesse Pugh Company. Two days, afternoon and night. Strickland Gillilan. Afternoon. Wirt Lothar. Complete Course. Orchestral Entertainers. Two days, afternoon and night.

August 30th will be Farmers' Day. A program will be arranged for that day which will be of especial interest to farmers. Lecturers who are prominent in agricultural and horticultural circles will be secured for address.

CONFIDENT OF RESULT

Republican Headquarters Predict the Re-election of President Taft.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Director Mulvane, in charge of the western bureau of the republican campaign, has issued a statement claiming 315 electoral votes for President Taft, or forty-nine more than are necessary to elect. The reports which have come in to headquarters during the past week have been unanimous in their showing that the republicans are getting back into line, being convinced that Roosevelt's election is an impossibility and realizing that a vote for Roosevelt is a half a vote for Wilson and free trade. In addition to this, there is indisputable evidence that Woodrow Wilson will not get the democratic vote which was given to Bryan in 1908. Thousands of democrats in every State have declared that they are for President Taft upon the plain business proposition that they do not want a change from the present prosperous conditions. It is reported from all sections that business men and farmers, as well as workmen, who have hitherto been democrats, are openly working for the success of the republican ticket in the hope that prosperity will not be destroyed.

Chas. F. Scott, of the Western headquarters says:

"President Taft not only can but will be elected; there is every reason to fear Wilson and free trade; and Roosevelt cannot get the eight out of every ten republican votes necessary to elect him. These are the logical and convincing facts which should bring about on election day an old-time rally of the republican party at the polls. In the last hours before election these facts, already spread broadcast, are being emphatically repeated and will have their effect in still further re-uniting the party which enemies within and without are vainly seeking to destroy."

ELEVEN CONVICTIONS

The docket of the police court shows that there were eleven convictions during the month of October. As usual the number of convictions for intoxication was the largest. All of the arrests were made for minor offenses. Besides the arrests shown on the docket a number of strangers were arrested and turned over to the proper authorities.

The docket shows that during the last month there were six men fined for intoxication. One pleaded guilty to the charge of profanity and three were fined for assault and battery. One conviction was obtained upon the charge of carrying concealed weapons. No women were arrested during the month.

The prohibitionists have no county ticket in the field, but have a candidate for congress. The socialist ticket is complete with the exception of the judicial candidates and candidate for joint senator.

ONE KILLED, MANY INJURED IN FIRE

Prominent People Have Narrow Escapes From Burning Hotel in St. Louis.

ONE BODY FOUND IN RUINS

Guests Lowered Themselves From Windows by Ropes Made From the Bed Clothing.

St. Louis, November 2.—One person was killed and twenty-three were injured, three probably fatally, as a result of an early morning fire, which destroyed the Berlin, one of the most fashionable family hotels in St. Louis today.

W. C. Douglas, a director of the St. Louis Union Trust Company, and identified with several other corporations, was burned to death. His body was found in the ruins by firemen. Albert Genret, Lieutenant William Green and F. P. Bowisby were probably fatally injured. Genret and Green suffered fractured skulls when they fell to the pavement while trying to escape from the burning building.

The fire had gained great headway before it was discovered and men, women and children were compelled to jump or to lower themselves by ropes made of bed clothing. Many were carried from the building.

Miss Edna Kissinger, a school teacher, swung herself out on a window ledge and hung in midair until flames scorched her finger tips and burned her hair. She was compelled to loosen her hold and fell to the ground. Her injuries are serious.

There were 150 guests in the hotel. The names of a majority of them figure daily in the society affairs of St. Louis. An aunt of D. R. Francis, former Governor of Missouri, was carried down a ladder and escaped unharmed.

TOLL ROAD PURCHASED

Paoli and New Albany Pike Deal Is Completed.

Local automobilists will be interested in knowing that the part of the New Albany and Paoli pike that extends from the New Albany city limits to the Floyd county line, a distance of fourteen and one-third miles, became free yesterday. The pike has been a toll road for nearly three-quarters of a century, and was one of the few toll roads that remain in Indiana. The deal for the purchase of the pike by Floyd county to convert it into a free macadamized road was consummated a month or more ago.

The purchase of that part of the pike in Floyd county makes the entire pike free from New Albany to Paoli, a distance of forty miles, except five miles of road that passes through a corner of Harrison county, and it is expected that this piece of road will be purchased by Harrison county in the near future.

The move for the purchase of the pike was started by the New Albany Commercial Club more than a year ago. It is understood that the same organization will start at once a move for the purchase of that part of the New Albany and Corydon pike that lies in Floyd county. That part of the pike from the Floyd county line to Corydon was purchased by Harrison county several months ago, and with the purchase by Floyd county of that part of the road within her borders the entire pike will become a free macadamized road.

FUNERAL OF SHERMAN HELD THIS AFTERNOON

Last Rites at Bier of the Late
Vice President.

Utica, N. Y., Nov. 2.—All joining in the sorrow of the people of this city, the president of the United States, many members of congress and representatives of the various departments of the government, attended the funeral of the late Vice President James S. Sherman, which was held here this afternoon.

Services were conducted in the First Presbyterian church, this edifice having been selected for the occasion because the Dutch Reformed church, of which Mr. Sherman was a member, was regarded as too small to accommodate the crowd.

Yesterday afternoon the body of Vice President Sherman was borne in solemn procession to the Oneida county courthouse, and from 3 o'clock until 9 o'clock last night lay in state on a catafalque in the rotunda of the building. A detail of fifty soldiers from the Utica national guard company acted as a military guard during the lying in state. It was estimated that during the six hours the body lay in state, fully 40,000 persons passed the bier for a last view of the features of their neighbor, "Jim" Sherman. The body then was borne back to the Sherman residence. There it was kept sacred in the privacy of the family until the hour of the funeral this afternoon. Only relatives and intimate friends of Mr. Sherman were privileged to view the remains at the home.

The annual report of the Carnegie hero commission shows a distribution of sixty medals and financial benefits in the United States and the distribution during the last six months of about $50,000 in pensions to the relatives of those medalled for heroism.

EUROPE DUBIOUS OVER OUTCOME

Chancellories Amazed at the Success of Allies.

PEACE OF EUROPE MENAGED

Grave Discussions Are Being Held in Contemplation of the Questions That Inevitably Would Arise Following the Imminent Fall of Constantinople —In the Meantime the Allies Are Pushing Their Moslem Foes Hard.

London, Nov. 2.—Hanging over the Oriental railroad at Tchataldja is smoke from Bulgarian cannon. Twenty-five miles down the valley through which that railroad twists are the minarets of Constantinople.

Far behind to the northwest of the victorious Bulgarians their artillery is hammering at the fort of Adrianople, and to the southwest of the besieged city the Bulgarian troops are tramping through the streets of Demotika.

Somewhere between Adrianople and the Ottoman capital along the line of the torn-up railroad, is what is left of the army of Nazim Pasha, if that Turkish commander and war minister is not already captured. He or his representatives, send word to Constantinople that the right wing of his army at Viza, on a line with Adrianople to the east, is marching north with their backs to the Black sea. Mukhtar Pasha, say these reports, has defeated a Bulgarian column and many guns and much ammunition have fallen into his hands. The Turks say they have captured the important town of Bunarhissar, near Kirk-Killisseh.

Earlier dispatches from Ottoman sources say that the Bulgars are being hemmed in on four sides.

At Adrianople the Bulgarians offered to let all the civilians leave the town and this offer was refused by the Turkish commander, who said that it could only be accepted if the garrison were allowed to go also.

A well-informed correspondent sends this about the fighting: "Bulgarian siege batteries posted at Kaduikel and on the heights began Wednesday the bombardment of the Turkish works at Schietantoka, Karagorztobia and Hadriktabja, belonging to a group on the northwest front of Adrianople. They are among the strongest forts. They are of modern construction, are well armed and have bomb-proof shelters. Their capture would bring about the fall of Adrianople."

"The bombardment lasted eight hours and was then resumed after an hour's interval. The effect of the Bulgarian guns was to draw a considerable reply from the Turkish guns which was ineffective. Meanwhile the Bulgarian infantry advanced to attack Marash and Karagaon. The Turkish garrison have made numerous sorties on this front, and there is a fearful battle. It is raging with varying success at the bridge over the Maritza river at Marash. The Turks have displayed extraordinary stubbornness and have brought up fresh forces."

"This is the most sanguinary battle the Bulgarians have had before Adrianople. They are displaying an admirable contempt for death. This is especially so in the case of the reserves who are under fire for the first time. Now that the Turkish main army is as good as destroyed it is probable that the investment corps before Adrianople will be strengthened and the assault on the fortress continued with increased energy."

Word comes from the Greeks that one of their torpedo boats blew up a Turkish cruiser in the Gulf of Salonika, killing many of the crew.

The Montenegrin attack on Scutari that has been marked by such stubborn fighting on both sides, seems to have suffered a serious check.

The Servians are sending fresh levies into those parts of Macedonia that have fallen to their arms, and are busy with the governing of that province. Many of the Arnaut tribesmen are coming over to the Serbs.

In the meantime in the chancelleries of Europe the success of the allies is looked on with amazement, and in some quarters with chagrin. Should the Turkish capital fall there will immediately arise questions pregnant with danger to the peace of Europe. Austria's intervention and the immediate response of Russia are two things that caused a long conference at Paris between M. Poincare and the representatives of the powers. The proposal on his part for the powers to mediate between Turkey and the allies is vague and apparently aims to have the powers look on without seeking compensation while the allies split. The Bulgars say they won't stand interference, and that if Turkey wants to talk peace she must come to Sofia rather than Paris.

Called Off Big Parade.

New York, Nov. 2.—The parade in which, according to National Chairman McCombs, 77,000 men were to march up Fifth avenue this afternoon and be reviewed by Governor Wilson, was called off yesterday after Governor Wilson, in Rochester, had sent the following telegram to Mr. McCombs: "Hope that arrangements for parade in New York will be cancelled as evidence of our deep sympathy with the family and friends of the late vice president."

STRANGE STORY TOLD BY PARIS NEWSPAPER

Nothing More Striking In the Files of Fiction.

Paris, Nov. 2.—The authenticity of this story, which reads more like the first chapter of a detective thriller than a statement of facts, is vouched by Gil Blas. It concerns an American mother and her daughter, whose names the Gil Blas has not been allowed to give, but the paper asserts that they are well known members of society.

The story refers to the daughter, formerly Miss L., but now Mrs. W. The mother and the daughter arrived in Paris from the extreme west late at night on the eve of the opening of the 1900 Paris exposition. They went to a large hotel. The daughter in the morning knocked at her mother's door. She received no reply and made inquiries of the chambermaid as to her mother's whereabouts. The chambermaid insisted that the daughter arrived at the hotel alone, and the entire hotel staff made similar assertions. The daughter, who was almost distracted, made appeals to the American embassy and the police to search for her mother, but her efforts were without effect.

The daughter, heartbroken, then returned to America. She was visiting Biarritz a week ago, and now says that while there she overheard three men who were seated in the hotel salon discussing the mysteries of the great capital. One of them told a story which she recognized as her own. The speaker described the sudden death of an American woman in a Paris hotel at 2 o'clock in the morning. The doctors diagnosed the case as plague. As the publicity of the case on the eve of the opening of the exposition meant a catastrophe, the minister of the interior instructed the prefect of police to seize the woman's baggage, burn it with the body, disinfect the room and bind all the hotel servants who had seen the woman to deny her existence.

The daughter of the woman says she has not been able to get confirmation of the story, but is determined to make a thorough investigation before she returns to America.

GRANADA GRATEFUL

Its Women Convey Warm Tribute to Admiral Southerland.

Washington, Nov. 2.—A grateful tribute to Admiral W. H. Southerland and the American forces in Nicaragua tendered the American commander in chief by the women of Granada, has been made public at the state department. The women wrote the admiral a letter expressing their gratitude to him and his men for having relieved the inhabitants of the city of Granada from frightful menace from the rebels, and accompanied the letter with a bouquet of flowers from their own home gardens. After reciting the fact that recurring conflicts in Nicaragua have brought sadness to the country, the letter declares:

"On account of the shortness of your stay in this city we are not able to express to you personally our gratitude and profound esteem, so we send you a bouquet of flowers from our gardens, which in their perfume carry for you and your great and generous country the tenderest feelings of the women of Granada."

Balloon Has Not Been Heard From.

Berlin, Nov. 2.—The balloon Dueseldorf, with John Watts and A. T. Atherholt, two American aeronauts on board, has not yet reported. The complete absence of news in regard to its movements since the balloon started on Sunday last from Stuttgart in the race for the international balloon trophy is causing much uneasiness.

The Trail of the Tariff

Effects of Free Trade and Protection From the Organization of the Government to the Present Day Graphically Shown in Parallel Columns.

Since the foundation of our government in 1783 down to the present year of 1912, the protective tariff policy has always brought a period of prosperity to this country during which the business of the country has prospered, the laboring man has had work, and the farmer has had good prices for his produce. So the prosperity of the country affects the wage-worker, the farm, the factory alike. Whenever there has been a period of free trade or tariff for revenue only, there has come business disaster; factories have been closed or run on short time; labor has been unemployed or employed only for part of the time and farm products have sold at very low prices. Times have been "hard."

In this campaign the voters are asked to determine again the question whether they will support President Taft and the Republican party in a continuance of the present prosperous conditions, or whether they will risk a change again to Woodrow Wilson and the Democratic party, which is committed by its platform and by the utterance of its candidate to a free trade policy.

The Appleton, Wis., Daily Post of Oct. 23 contained a striking illustration of the effects of our experiments with free trade and with protection, the alternating periods being represented by black and white sections. Alternating all through our history, the black periods of depression invariably came with the free trade periods and the white periods of business prosperity invariably came with the protective tariff periods. We reproduce below in parallel columns the record of these years.

1783 TO 1789. Free Trade Period.	1789 TO 1816. Protection Period.
After the War of the Revolution, the Government did not have the power to place a tariff on foreign manufactured goods. The States only had that power. The highest duty was 2½ to 5 per cent., which brought idleness, poverty, bankruptcy, riots, insurrections, suspension of the payment of debts, stay laws, loss of credit to the people, States and Nation.	Constitution adopted, with power to place duties on imported goods. Adoption of protective tariff laws. Work took the place of idleness, prosperity of poverty, commerce and business flourished; people prosperous; money plenty. The Republic strong enough to make war and whip her old enemy in defence of her honor, 1812.
1816 TO 1824. Revenue Tariff Period.	1824 TO 1832. Jacksonian Protection Period.
Suspension of business. Destruction of manufactures. Reduction of the circulating medium. Working men idle, and suffering great distress. High prices for foreign goods; low prices for American goods. Deficit in the National Treasury. Bankruptcy of the people, States and Nation.	Industries established. Money circulating. Employment plenty. Trade and Commerce prosperous. Good prices for American Goods; Reduction in the price of Foreign Goods. Jackson said: "Our country presents on every side marks of prosperity and happiness, unequaled, perhaps, in any other portion of the world."
1832 TO 1842. Calhoun Revenue Tariff Period.	1842 TO 1850. Whig Protective Tariff Period.
Workshops closed. Soup Houses opened. Work and Wages suspended. Corn burned for Fuel. The Sheriff the only Salesman. Treasury Deficit. Government Credit Destroyed. The people, States and Nation bankrupt.	Work and Wages increased. Soup Houses closed. Factories opened. Good Prices for Farm Products. Happy Saturday Nights. Revenue Receipts and Treasury Surplus. The People, States and Nation Prosperous.
1850 TO 1861. Democratic Free Trade Period.	1861 TO 1872. Republican Protective Tariff Period.
Factories closed. Soup Houses opened. Wages greatly reduced. "Wild-cat, Stump-tail" Currency. Revenue fell off one-half. Prices of foreign manufactured goods high. Prices of farm goods low. The people, States and Nation without credit or money.	War for the Union. Army and Navy created. Industries established. Highest Wages ever paid to Labor. Nation's Wealth Doubled. Greenbacks issued. The Nation Preserved. The Slaves Freed. The People, States and Nation prosperous beyond any Nation on earth.
1872 TO 1876. Reform Tariff Period.	1876 TO 1893. Protective Tariff Period.
Ten per cent. taken off the Tariff. Idleness, poverty, riots. Congress repeals the 10 per cent. reduction. Resumption of specie payments.	Increase of Industries. Increased Prosperity. McKinley Law passed. Greatest Prosperity ever enjoyed by any People. Homes and Farms purchased. Increase of Wages. The People, States and Nation enjoying the Highest Credit. Happy Saturday Nights.
1893 TO 1897. Democratic Free Trade Period.	1897 TO 1912. Protection Policy in Force.
Panic, idleness, poverty. Soup Houses opened. Factories closed. Bankruptcy. Revenue Short. Increase of the Public Debt. Loss of Money equal to expenses of the War.	Soup houses closed and factories opened. Unprecedented prosperity. A continued increase in wages. Deposits in Savings Banks trebled. The demand for Labor greater than the supply. Well stocked larders and domestic tranquility. Peace and happiness prevail.

After going over this record, no voter should hesitate to cast his vote next Tuesday for President Taft and the Republican party, whose principles have always brought prosperity to all classes of our citizens.

PLOT ALLEGED IN KIGER CASE

Mother of Slain Man Introduces Evidence.

SAYS GANG SOUGHT HIS LIFE

The Recent Murder of Harry Kiger, a Terre Haute Politician, Is Declared by His Mother to Have Been the Result of a Conspiracy on Part of Certain Persons Who Feared He Would "Peach" in Registration Cases.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 2.—Mrs. Clementine Kiger, mother of Harry Kiger, who was killed by Frany Battle Ax Savage a few weeks ago, says she has evidence to support her charge that her son was killed because the gang thought he would turn state's evidence. Kiger had been a registration inspector, serving in a ward in which he did not live, and the gang thought he told tales "out of school." A short time before he was called out of a saloon and shot Kiger visited a newspaper office, and this was known to the gang.

Mrs. Kiger says her son told her Donn M. Roberts had berated him about another matter and that he had told Roberts he was "through doing dirty work for him." Mrs. Kiger says her son worked at night at home making out registration papers. She had twenty-five of them which her son had left in the house. Small cards had been made out containing names and addresses to fit with the registration applications. These cards had the number of voters listed at certain addresses. At one address the number was twenty. They averaged five to an address. An examination of the registration list showed these cards to be correct.

TO ENJOIN ROAD WORK

Man Files Petition Alleging Contract Is Not to Be Fulfilled.

Elkhart, Ind., Nov. 2.—A. H. Beardsley, a good roads enthusiast, has filed in the superior court a petition for an injunction to stop work on the five-mile macadam road on which one mile is nearly completed. His petition is based on the allegation that the advertisements and contract specify a fourteen-foot road. The commissioners instructed the contractors to build a nine-foot road.

A government expert declared the reduction in width was a mistake. The request to the commissioners to reduce the width to nine feet came from persons at a public meeting. The job was let for $29,900. The contractors are Kelleher, Miller & Irwin, of Frankfort. The commissioners, contractors, surveyors, county treasurer and auditor are made defendants.

Wants to Be Heard in Future.
Evansville, Ind., Nov. 2.—Adolph Melzer, who gave $1,000 that will, by compound interest, make Evansville worth $19,956,400.13 in 2162, will read his letter to Mayor Heilman into a phonograph, that his voice may be preserved and heard by the people living in Evansville two and one-half centuries from now. Fearing that the present contract may disintegrate and drop to pieces from age, Mr. Melzer will propose that the contract be examined every twenty-five years, and renewed if it shows evidence of wear.

Failure Made Him Despondent.
Danville, Ind., Nov. 2.—William W. West, formerly of Indianapolis, committed suicide here by taking carbolic acid. He had failed in business and despondency was the cause. West was forty-two years old and was a bachelor. Some months ago he sold his farm near Lizton and invested in a grocery store in Indianapolis and lost his money.

Shot During Political Quarrel.
Valparaiso, Ind., Nov. 2.—While the two men were talking politics here, H. Behrend of Chicago became so enraged that he shot Bracken Bain in the head. Bain, who is a New York drummer, will recover. Behrend is a Taft man, while Bain favored Roosevelt.

Driving Wolf Team Overland.
Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 2.—Riding in a buggy drawn by five wolves, Frank Yomer and Darius Young, both from Seattle, Wash., have left here for New York. They left Seattle on their trans-continental trip last May and expect to reach New York before winter.

State Making a Test.
Marion, Ind., Nov. 2.—William A. Thompson, a chiropractor of this city, is on trial in the circuit court on a charge of practicing medicine and surgery without a license. The case is to be made a test as to the right of chiropractors to practice in this state.

Made Death Doubly Sure.
Fort Wayne, Ind., Nov. 2.—A woman who committed suicide has been identified as Mrs. Edna Luckry of Elkhart, who came here a short time ago. She was a servant. She took morphine and then turned on the gas.

A severe hurricane off the west coast of Mexico and Central America was thought much damage.

BOYS' HANDICRAFT

By A. NEELY HALL

Author of "Handicraft for Handy Boys" and "The Boy Craftsman"

TWO EASILY MADE BIRD HOUSES.

It is a simple matter to induce the birds to build their nests near our homes if we but provide suitable shelters. These must be so situated that the birds will not only have ample protection from cats and other bird enemies, but have the feeling of security, and of course the houses must be firmly fastened so they will weather the severest of storms. If you have a back yard, the problem of finding secluded locations is an easy one, and a garden near by that will furnish seeds and insects, and a fresh supply of water for drink and bath are additional inducements which will make your chances of securing bird tenants almost certain.

A common box, properly arranged, is just as much of an attraction to birds as a house on which a large amount of time has been spent in working out ornamental roofs, steeples and doorways, but of course for the sake of appearances, a house should be of a neat design and be carefully built.

The bird ark shown in Fig. 1 is one of the simplest houses a boy can make. A starch box, or a box of about the same proportions, should be used for this. Partition off the inside of the box into two compartments, as shown in Fig. 2, and bore a hole through each end, near one corner, for doorways. Then nail the cover boards to the box. You will notice that the box is mounted cornerwise upon its support; this is done so the adjacent sides of the box will form a pitched roof that will shed water readily. The eaves of the roof are formed by nailing strips of the length of the roof boards to their edges, and for the projections over the ends four strips should be cut similar to that shown in Fig. 3, and nailed to the end edges of the roof boards.

If you support the house upon the top of a post, prepare two blocks with right-angled "bird's mouth" cuts in them (Fig. 4), and nail these to the sides of the post. Then fasten the box to the blocks. Drive a short peg into a hole bored below each end doorway, for a perch stick.

To prevent cats and squirrels from reaching the ark, a wide, projecting collar of tin or sheet iron should be fastened around the post one foot or so below the top.

The bird cottage shown in Fig. 5 contains three compartments. The lower portion may be made out of a box of about the size used for the ark, but better results will be obtained by building the entire house. Box boards will be good enough material. Divide the lower story of the cottage through the center, as in Fig. 6, and fasten the second story floor to the top of the partition and side walls. Cut the roof boards of the proper lengths and widths to form projections at the eaves and over the front, and after nailing them to the side walls of the house, cut the gable-end boards to fit between the roof boards and fasten them in place.

Everyone reads the "Want Ad." column.

THE TAFT RECORD.

The administration of President Taft is appealing with increasing strength to the voters as they look into the record of things accomplished during the past three and a half years. Huntington Wilson, assistant secretary of state, in an address recently summarized this record as follows:

President Taft's administration has brought honor abroad and prosperity at home. The Republican party of today is the party of sane progress under the constitution. It seems obvious that the Republican party's position on the great questions of the day is the clearest and wisest before the voters of the country. In satisfying ourselves as to what a Republican administration under President Taft is likely to do in the next four years and in weighing this with the promises of other parties, a wise man will wish to recall some of the things President Taft's administration has done. Allow me to mention the following examples:

Postal savings banks have been established.

The powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission have been enlarged completely and satisfactorily to deal with the railway rate question.

The safety appliance statutes have been perfected and completed.

Conservation, including conservation of water-power sites, has been secured.

Corporations have been forbidden to make campaign contributions.

The publicity of campaign contributions has been prescribed by law. Irrigation in the West has been promoted.

Common carriers have been compelled to make detailed reports of accidents.

The white slave traffic has been driven from interstate commerce.

The income tax amendment has been submitted to the states.

An international conference has been called to consider the high cost of living, which is equally menacing all countries.

The governors of all the states have been invited to come together to co-operate for the establishment of agricultural banks, to give the farmer the same credit facilities that are enjoyed by the municipality or the corporation.

The corporation excise tax has been enacted and at once brought in $30,000,000 revenue.

Through the exhaustive report of a Monetary Commission great progress has been made toward legislation which shall give our currency system that greater flexibility which will relieve periodical stringency of the money market and the consequent business failures.

The Department of State and the whole foreign service establishment have been reorganized and maintained on a high plane of efficiency and civil service principles.

In the sphere of diplomacy, President Taft's administration negotiated the great arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France which won the applause of the whole world only to be defeated by the Democrats and their allies.

Three or four wars have been prevented or ended in the last four years by American diplomacy.

Pan-Americanism has been made a working reality instead of a dream.

The open-door policy in China has been translated from a theory into a practical business interest.

No American president has a larger record of achievement. The president has quietly but persistently advanced the interests of our country. That is the reason his record is approved as it is more closely examined.

MARKING THE BALLOT.

The Republican party in this judicial circuit has no candidate for judge and prosecutor. These two places appear blank on the Republican ticket. Persons who wish to vote for judge and prosecutor can do so in one of the two ways, either by marking in the square opposite every name for which they vote, or by marking in the circle at the head of the Republican ticket and then crossing over for judge and prosecutor and marking in the square opposite the candidates either on the Democratic or Progressive tickets. The law on marking ballots covering this condition reads as follows:

"Provided, however, that if he shall desire to vote for all the candidates of one party or group of petitioners he may mark in the large circle inclosing the device and preceding the title under which the candidates of such party or group of petitioners are printed, and the vote shall then be counted for all the candidates under that title. If the voter marks in the large circle inclosing the device he shall not mark elsewhere on the ballot, unless there be no candidate for some office in the list printed under such device, in which case he may indicate his choice for such office by marking the square to the left of the name of any candidate for such office on any other list."

From all sides come reports of a heavy shifting of voters to the support of the Republican party and administration. Many observers of political conditions in all parts of the country are saying the same thing. The Taft administration bears examination and the more closely it is looked into, the more the voters find to commend in its record. And then men are coming to see that the real question is whether we wish to continue the present prosperous business conditions or try an experiment again with the democratic party which has always resulted in disappointment and hard times. Voters have not forgotten the Cleveland days of 1897.

Prosperity is the result of sound government. Radical changes bring uneasiness and fear with a grave possibility of a panic. President Taft stands for the constitution, and with his reelection, prosperity will continue.

No voter can afford to gamble with prosperity. A change in the management of the government is always a risk and uncertain.

To The Voters of Jackson Co.

You will find my name on the Progressive ticket for commissioner of the east precinct. I have not canvassed the county to see you in person, soliciting your support for the following reason: The office does not pay sufficient salary to justify any expense in being elected, provided I conduct your business in county matters, the same as I would my own business, or a merchant conducts his business, which I pledge to do if elected.

If you are satisfied with the present condition of our roads and the economy practiced in general in this county I cannot appeal to you for your vote. If you are not satisfied with present conditions, I solicit your support. I have always believed county business should be as free from politics as possible, and have always voted that way.

I will appreciate your support.

ON HER HUSBANDLillian Conway Tells of Sophia
Singer's Death.

ROBBERY WAS THE MOTIVE

Chicago Actress, Arrested With Her Husband After Flight Following the Murder of Their Friend, Confesses to the Police That Conway Killed the Girl in Their Apartments, but Says Murder Was Not Planned.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Lillian Beatrice Conway-Ryall, sometimes called the "queen of burlesque," broke down under the rapid fire of questions by detectives and confessed that her husband, Charles Conway, formerly of Muncie, Ind., murdered Miss Sophie G. Singer of Baltimore last Monday night in a boarding house in Indiana avenue. Robbery was the motive. But murder was not intended. The "wooden-footed clown" of circus fame merely intended to stun the girl, that she could raise no outcry while Mrs. Conway and her husband made their escape, the woman told the police. That his wife has confessed has not been told to Conway, who is being kept in solitary confinement at the Stanton avenue police station.

Mrs. Conway told the police that she was not an actual witness to the slaying, but told of hearing a scuffle between her husband and Miss Singer, and seeing Miss Singer's body on the bed in the Conway bedroom just before they fled. She says her husband told her at that time that the girl was merely unconscious, and that they would better flee before she regained her senses.

In her statement she says: "Sophie and Conway got into a quarrel in Conway's bedroom. I left the bedroom and went into the dining room. Sophie was in her stocking feet and had her shoes in her hand. She came in the room and sat on the bed to put on her shoes. In the meantime I had left the room. I was out of the room three minutes. When I returned I saw Sophie lying on the bed. My husband said: 'We'd better leave here; she's unconscious.'"

The woman said the handkerchief found around Miss Singer's neck was Conway's. "He hit Sophie on the head with a billy made of a doorknob," she said.

Mrs. Conway said that while she knew her husband had no money before the murder happened, he had $35 after they left the house by a rear stairway and fled.

Brought to Chicago from Lima, O., where they were arrested, Conway and his wife were taken first to detective headquarters and then to the Stanton Avenue police station.

A dramatic scene in which William Warthen, who was to have married Miss Singer last Tuesday, and Mrs. Conway were the principals, followed the confession. The woman pleaded with Warthen for forgiveness, the police say, and begged him to kiss her, which he refused to do. Both were much affected.

President Declines to Discuss Question of Sherman's Successor.

New York, Nov. 2.—President Taft will reach here tonight, following the funeral of Vice President Sherman at Utica, for a final political conference. The president then will proceed to Cincinnati to cast his ballot and there await news of the national election results.

With the sudden death of the vice president came practically the termination of the president's campaign. The president had expected to make a few more political speeches, particularly from the rear platform of the train on his way to Ohio, but since the death of Mr. Sherman he will not do so.

The president will leave New York late Sunday so as to spend practically the entire day Monday travelling through his native state from the northeast to the southwest corners, but he will not make political talks if it can be avoided. At places where there are large crowds and there may appear to be a demand, he may pay a tribute to the late vice president and make a brief and earnest appeal. The president made it known that he would not discuss the matter of a successor to the late vice president as his running mate until after the funeral services. The subject may be discussed in the conference here tomorrow.

LETTERS BEARING ON THE DYNAMITE CASESFederal Jury Hearing Much Documentary Evidence.

Indianapolis, Nov. 2.—In the dynamite cases the district attorney began the presentation of letters to the jury, beginning with the ordering of the strike against the American Bridge company in 1905, when many letters passed between officers of the iron workers relative to the open shop policy of the company. There are about a thousand letters to be read to the grand jury.

Some of the letters showed that the union was having trouble in holding some of its members in line. A letter from George Hagerty of Phillipsburg, N. J., to McNamara, Dec. 11, 1905, said representatives of the employers were getting union men to tear up their union cards and go to work.

"If we don't put a stop to this gang, the chances are they will be 'open shops,'" says the Hagerty letter, referring to several big construction jobs about to begin. "I am requested to write to you," the letter continued "and ask if you can do anything for a few good strong-arm men to go in here and clean things up."

"The reply of McNamara was that he had referred the situation to Ryan. He added: 'If I can be of any assistance to you, I will let you know as soon as I hear from Ryan.'"

Fisher to Stick on the Job.

Washington, Nov. 2.—The secretary of the interior, Walter Fisher, will be the only member of the president's official family who will not have the privilege of voting for his chief in the coming election. Secretary Fisher, having been away over two months in Hawaii, was unable to register in his home city. The secretary will remain in Washington "on the lid" while the other cabinet officers are voting in their respective states.

Close Contest in Cuba.

Havana, Nov. 2.—The Cuban presidential election passed off quietly. There was no important disturbance anywhere. Both sides are claiming the victory.

Social Reform Leaders

By CHARLES STELZLE

WHAT is the church doing in the matter of social reform? The Socialists scorn its claims that it is rendering real service in this connection. It is true that the church is not a social reform agency in the sense that it makes this its chief function, but even a cursory study of the situation must convince the open minded student that the church is an important factor in social service. It gives to every man the right to accept whatever economic theory he desires so long as its application does no violence to the rights of others and so long as it is in accord with fundamental moral principles. But the church has a positive position and work in this matter. It has undertaken important studies of social conditions throughout the country which easily match the efforts of professional social workers. It has come out in pronouncements upon certain economic conditions which might well have been sent forth by the workers themselves. They could not have been more emphatic and concrete. But perhaps the chief function of the church in these matters is that of supplying the men and the women who are the leaders in social reform affairs. The study of over a thousand professional social workers as to church affiliation, as indicated on the accompanying chart, shows that of those who were associated charity workers 92 per cent were church members. Similar facts with regard to other groups are also shown. As a matter of fact, the church practically controls through its membership nearly every great philanthropic movement of any consequence. Glance at the list of directors and verify this statement. Practically all of the money that goes into hospitals, orphan asylums, clubs and charitable institutions of various kinds comes from church people. Without them these could not exist. Recognizing that there is a great work to be done in the matter of social reform which must reach down to fundamental things, let it not be forgotten that the wounded in life's battle must meanwhile be cared for. To these the church ministers freely. At the same time it is developing most of those who will fight for the bigger things in social reform.

Apples of Gold
By Wilbur D. Nesbit

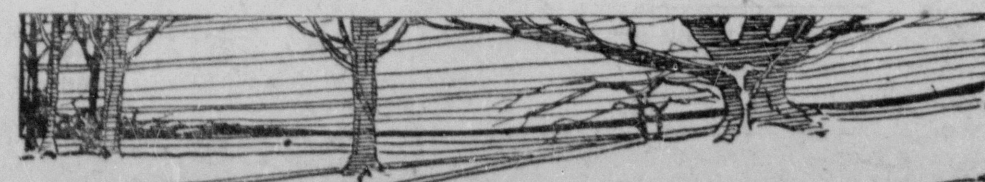

"A word fitly spoken
Is like apples of gold
In pictures of silver."—Proverbs xxv, 11.

There was a singer who was mute
Because all ears seemed deaf to him;
The throbbing measures of the lute,
Or chantings in cathedrals dim,
Waked in his heart no living strain
Until some one came with a smile
That seemed as sunshine after rain,
To speak a gentle word the while.
And then his heart with music stirred,
And made a song the whole world heard.

There was a painter—yet his brush
All careless o'er the canvass crept,
And inspiration in the hush
Of night no more to being swept,
Until some one came on a day—
A day that had been gloom and cloud—
And stopped but long enough to say
A word with hopefulness endowed.
And then the painter's eyes grew wet,
But his great work is treasured yet.

There was a soldier. And a word
Sent him to battle armed anew.
There was a king. One thing he heard
Into a greater kingdom grew.
There was a slave. One came to teach,
And flowers blossomed in the road,
And the fair balm of gentle speech
Took all the stinging from the goad
And eased his feet where paths were rough—
One kindly word was word enough.

Today the toilers in the heat
And they who work with cunning hands,
Rejoice to hear some one repeat
The word the sore heart understands.
And this is true of each kind thing
Breathed in an impulse generous:
It will not die, but it shall bring
A golden echo back to us.
It is as silver pictures old
Where apples glow in ruddy gold.

Drink Chloride of Lime.

Water consumers of Dover, N. J., are now taking carefully measured doses of chloride of lime with their daily beverage and thus avoiding infection with typhoid fever. The doses are measured by the municipal authorities and distributed impartially to all users of the water. The fluid that is drawn on Monday morning for the wash tub is just as carefully treated as the water that is set on table for drinking.

A little machine at the source of supply does the trick. About eleven ounces of the chloride to 250 gallons of water is the proportion calculated by scientists to be effectual in killing the bacilli and yet not enough to harm human beings.

The machine is so constructed that if anything goes wrong the chloride supply is entirely cut off and the population can take its chances with the germs instead of getting an overdose of the antidote.

Is your husband cross? An irritable, fault finding disposition is often due to a disordered stomach. A man with good digestion is nearly always good natured. A great many have been permanently cured of stomach trouble by taking Chamberlain's Tablets. For sale by all dealers. Advertisement.

Unappreciated Mercies.

"You're glad to get them back again. I guess," said the optician as he carefully adjusted a pair of spectacles on a customer's nose.

"Yes," replied the customer, a boy of eighteen, "I am indeed." "That poor boy," explained the optician after the youth had left the shop, "has practically lost the sight of one eye, and the other is so near-sighted that he can see with it only by the aid of the strongest glass. Hard to go through life so handicapped!"

"And I've been groaning and complaining," said the man who had just had a pair of eyeglasses made, "because I have to wear specs to correct a mild astigmatism. How little we appreciate our mercies!"

Price of Fur Advances.

The price of every fur except bear advanced last year. Fine sable skins brought $200 each, arctic fox from $100 to $250 a skin; wolf, $6.50; squirrel, from 15 to 32 cents; bear, $7.50.

Don't waste your money buying strengthening plasters. Chamberlain's Liniment is cheaper and better. Dampen a piece of flannel with it and bind it over the affected parts and it will relieve the pain and soreness. For sale by all dealers. Advertisement.

"I must admit that my fiancée can't cook."
"That can be remedied. What's her attitude about not knowing how to cook? Does she brag about it, or does she talk like she would make an effort to learn?"

CHAPTER III. Mr. Bivens Calls.

STUART waked next morning with a sense of hopeless depression. What strange madness had come over the woman he loved? They had never discussed money before. Bivens was the only explanation.

A letter was on the hall rack which had been sent by a messenger. He broke the seal with nervous haste. It was from Bivens asking him to call his office telephone at 11 o'clock.

He tore the note into tiny pieces, stepped into the parlor and threw them into the grate. Some one was playing an old fashioned southern melody, and the tenderest voice accompanied the piano. He walked to the door of the music room.

It was Harriet Woodman. She looked up with a start.

"Oh, Jim, I didn't know you were there!"

"It was beautiful, little pal."

"Yes, I knew you'd like that piece. I heard you humming it one day. That's why I got it."

"What a sweet voice you have, child, so clear, so deep and rich and full of feeling. I didn't know you could sing."

"I didn't either until I tried."

"You must study music," he said, with enthusiasm.

The girl clasped her hands and leaped to her feet, exclaiming:

"Will you be proud of me, Jim, if I can sing?"

"Indeed I will," was the earnest answer.

The laughing eyes grew serious as she slowly said:

"Then I'll do my level best. I'm off Goodby."

On reaching his office on lower Broadway Stuart rang Bivens' telephone, and the president of the American Chemical company made an engagement to call at once.

Stuart was grateful for the timely call of a client who kept him in consultation for fifteen minutes while Bivens patiently waited his turn in the reception room.

The first view of Bivens was always unimpressive. He was short, thin and looked almost frail at first glance. A second look gave the impression of wiry reserve force in his compact frame. His hair was jet black and thinning slightly on top, which gave him the appearance of much greater age than he could really claim. His thin features were regular, and his face was covered with a thick black beard which he kept trimmed to a keen point on the chin. His most striking features were a high massive forehead, abnormally long for the size of his body, and a pair of piercing, head like black eyes.

He rarely spoke except to a purpose, and his manners were quiet, almost furtive. He had thus early in his career gained a nickname that was peculiarly significant in Wall street. He was known as the Weasel.

His whole makeup, physical and mental, was curiously complex, a mixture of sobriety and greed, piety and cruelty, tenderness and indomitable will, simplicity of tastes with boundless ambition.

His friendship for Stuart and his deference to him personally and socially dated from their boyhood in North Carolina, and particularly from an incident which occurred in their college days. Bivens' father had been a no torious coward in the Confederate army and had at last deserted the service. On Bivens' arrival at college, a particularly green freshman, Stuart had discovered a group of his classmates hazing him. They had forced the coward's son to mount a box and repeat to the crowd the funny stories about the "valor" of his father. The boy, scared half out of his wits, stood stammering and perspiring and choking with shame as he tried to obey his tormentors.

Stuart protested vigorously, and a fight ensued in which he was compelled to thrash the ringleader and rescue the victim by force of arms. From that day Stuart was Bivens' beau ideal of a gentleman. He had tolerated rather than enjoyed this friendship. Bivens shook hands quietly and took a seat beside Stuart's desk.

"Well?" said the lawyer at length. "I've come to make you an important proposition, Jim. We need another attorney. The business of the company is increasing so rapidly our force can't handle it. I need a big man close to me. If you'll take the place I'll give you a salary that will ultimately be as big as the president gets in the White House. Twenty thousand to start with."

Stuart looked at his visitor curiously. "Why do you want me, Cal? There are thousands of lawyers here who would jump at the chance. Many of them are better equipped than I."

"Because I know that you won't lie to me, you won't swindle or take advantage of me."

"Why not?" Stuart asked, with a smile.

"Because it's not in you."

"I see. You want to capitalize my character and use me to ambush the other fellow?"

"That's one way to look at it—yes."

"But that's not the real reason you come to me today with this proposition, is it?"

"Not the only one. You know my friendship for you is genuine. You know there's not a man in New York for whom I'd do as much as I will for you if you'll let me. Isn't that true?"

"I believe it—yes. And yet there must be another reason. You're not afraid of Woodman and wish to reach him through me?"

The ghost of a smile flitted around the shining little black eyes.

"Afraid?" he asked contemptuously. "I'm not even interested in him. The old fossil's a joke. He thinks he can stop the progress of the world to attend a case of measles in Mott street."

Stuart was silent a moment, watching the dark masked face before him. At last he blurted out:

"Well, Cal, what's the real reason you make me this offer today?"

"You can keep a little secret?"

"You ought to know that before making me such an offer."

"Yes—yes, of course, I know you will." Bivens paused and resumed his cigar. "The fact is—Jim—I'm in love."

"But where do I come into this affair?"

"Simple enough. The Primroses"—

"Oh, it's Miss Primrose?"

"Yes—Miss Nan. You see, they think the world of you. She said you grew up together in the same town. I was telling her about my business. I must have been bragging about what we were going to do. I was crazy, just looking at her. Her beauty made me drunk. I told her we needed a new attorney. She said you were the man. I told her I'd offer you the place. She seemed pleased. Said she knew you would accept. You've got to accept, old man. I want to make her feel that her word is law with me. Tell me, do you think I've got a chance with a girl like that? You know I've never gone with girls much. I'm timid and awkward. I don't know what to do or what to say. But my money will help, won't it?"

"Money always helps in this town, Cal."

"And it means so much to a woman, too, don't it?"

"Yes. Have you said anything to Miss Nan yet?"

"Lord, no! Haven't dared. I'm kinder shying up to the old lady to get her on my side. She seems awfully friendly. I think she likes me. Don't you think it a good plan to cultivate her?"

"By all means," was the dry reply.

"Say, Jim, help me. Take this attorneyship. It will please her and I'll make you rich. Come in with me and you'll never regret it. I know my folks were not your social equals in the old days down south. But you know as well as I do that money talks here."

There was no mistaking the genuineness of Bivens' feelings. Stuart had but to accept the generous offer made

"Think it over. I'll see you again!"

in good faith, and every cloud between him and Nan would vanish! They could be married at once and the future was secure. All he had to do was to keep silent for the moment as to his real relations to Nan and compromise his sense of honor by accepting the wages of a man whose principles he despised. His decision was made with out a moment's hesitation.

"I refuse the offer, Cal," he said firmly.

Bivens rose quickly and placed his smooth hand on his friend's.

"I won't take that answer now. Think it over. I'll see you again."

He turned and left the room before Stuart could reply.

The lawyer drew a photograph from his desk and looked at it, smiling tenderly.

"I wonder, Nan! I wonder!"

The smile slowly faded, and a frown clouded his brow. The lines of his mouth suddenly tightened.

"I'll settle it today," he said with decision, as he rose, took his hat and left for Gramercy park.

It was noon when Stuart reached the Primrose house, and Nan was again out. He received the announcement from her mother with a feeling of rage he could ill conceal.

"Where is she? I seem never to be able to find her at home."

"Now, don't be absurd, Jim. You know she would have broken any engagement to see you had she known you were going to call today. I don't expect her home until 7."

"Of course, I understand, Mrs. Primrose," Stuart said with a light laugh. "I should have told her, but I didn't know until a few moments ago that I was coming."

"Nothing serious has happened, I hope?" she asked, with carefully modulated sympathy, which said plainly that she hoped for the worst.

"No. Just say that I'll call after dinner."

"All right, Jim, dear," the mother purred. "I'll see that she's here if I have to lock the door."

Stuart strolled out aimlessly and began to ramble without purpose. Somehow today everything on which his eye rested and every sound that struck his ear proclaimed the advent of the trust's new power of which Bivens was the symbol—Bivens with his delicate, careful little hand, his bulging forehead, his dark keen eyes. What chance had his old friend Woodman against such forces?

That Bivens should fall hopelessly and blindly in love with Nan at first sight was too stupefying to be grasped at once. She couldn't love such a man—and yet his millions and that slippery mother were a sinister combination.

By evening he had thrown off his depression and met Nan with something of his old gaiety, to which she responded with a touch of coquetry.

"Tell me, Jim," she began with a smile of mischief in her eyes, "why you called at the remarkable hour of 12 noon today? Am I becoming so irresistible that work no longer has any charms? You must have something very important to say?"

"Yes, I have, Nan," he answered soberly, taking her hand. "I want a public announcement of our engagement in tomorrow morning's papers."

"But why? You know the one concession, the only one I have ever made to my mother's hostility to you, is that our engagement shall be kept secret until we are ready to marry. We must play fair."

"I will. We are ready now."

Nan's voice broke into a ripple of laughter.

"Oh, are we? I didn't know it."

"Yes, that's what I came to tell you," Stuart went on, catching her spirit of fun and pressing her hand. "I've arranged a little trip to the country tomorrow, and I'm going to convince you before we return. Make the announcement tonight, dear! On my honor I promise to convince you tomorrow that we are ready. I've an argument that never fails—an argument no woman can resist."

"Not tonight, Jim," was the laughing reply.

"Can't you trust me when I tell you that I've discovered something today that makes it necessary? I have seen Mr. Bivens."

Nan leaped to her feet, her face flushed, her voice ringing with triumph.

"And you did what I asked you. Oh, you're a darling! Why did you tease me so last night? You accepted his offer?"

"I'm sorry to disappoint you, dear, but I did not."

The girl dropped into her seat, with a sigh, while he went on:

"Bivens further confirmed in me the fact that he is hopelessly and desperately in love with you."

A flash of anger mantled Nan's cheeks.

"That will do, Jim," she said in quiet cold tones. "Your joke has gone far enough."

"Joke! Do you think I could joke on such a subject?"

A smile began to play about the corners of the full lips.

"I never dreamed he was so easy."

Still smiling dreamily Nan crossed her hands over her knees and studied the pattern in the rug, ignoring the presence of her lover.

"Let's not joke, Nan. It's too serious."

"Serious! I fall to see it."

"Can't you see that we must at once announce our engagement?"

The girl's lips curled with the faintest suggestion of sarcasm.

"I don't see it at all. You may be a good lawyer, but I fail to follow your logic."

Stuart rose, with a gesture of anger.

"Come to the point, Nan. Let's not beat the devil around the stump any longer. You know as well as I do that you've been trying to flirt with this little insect. You know in your heart of hearts you despise Bivens."

"On the contrary, I vastly admire him. The man who can enter with his handicap this big, heartless city and successfully smother the giants who oppose him is not an insect. I'd rather call him a hero. All women admire success."

"It's disgusting!"

Nan fixed her dark eyes on Stuart.

"How dare you use such a word to me?"

"Because it's true, and you know it."

"True or false, you can't say it"—she rose deliberately—"you may go now."

"Forgive me, dear," Stuart stammered in a queer, muffled voice. "I didn't mean to hurt you. I was mad with jealousy."

"You may go," was the hard, even answer.

"I can't go like this, dearest," he pleaded. "You must forgive me—you must! Look at me!"

She turned slowly, stared him full in the face for a moment without the quiver of an eyelid, her fine figure tense, erect, cold, as she quietly said:

"You are tiring me, Jim."

For the first time he saw a cold blooded calculation behind her beautiful eyes and felt it in the smile which showed the white teeth—the smile of a woman who would pause at nothing to get what she wanted.

A blush of shame tinged his face as he tremblingly said:

"Please, dear, let's not part like this! I've suffered enough today. You're only teasing me. And I've acted like a fool. Say that you forgive me!"

"Our engagement is at an end, Mr. Stuart," was the quiet answer.

"Nan!"

Before he could recover from the shock or utter a protest she opened the door and he had passed out into the night.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

FRUIT WITH A CEREAL.

DESSERTS which are delicious and easy to digest may be made with fresh fruits combined with a cereal. Rice is a favorite for this purpose, but farina, tapioca, cornstarch and sago also make nice desserts.

Berries, sliced bananas or peaches, figs or dates cut into pieces, oranges or grapes are excellent combined with any of the cereals.

Most of these desserts taste better served with milk or cream and sugar.

Desserts With Rice.

Peaches and Rice.—Boil some rice in milk for an hour and when it becomes quite firm add sugar to taste, some essence of vanilla and two yolks of eggs. Stir on the fire until the eggs are set and then fill a border mold. Stew some peaches for a few minutes. Turn out the rice, dish up the peaches on it and decorate with candied cherries and blanched almonds. Serve either hot or cold.

Baked Apple With Rice.—Take some firm ripe apples, cut off a thin slice from the top and scoop out each, leaving a shell about one-half inch thick. Half fill with cooked rice. Make a sirup by boiling the scooped out apples with just enough water to prevent scorching, a little cinnamon and for a dozen apples half a cupful of maple sugar. Fill each apple with the sirup. Place in a pan in the oven and bake.

Attractive In Appearance.

Plums With Rice.—Cook the rice in milk until it is tender and dry. Add a pinch of salt while it is cooking; also sugar enough to make it sweet. Pour into a border mold to set. When ready to serve turn it out carefully and fill the center with plums, canned or fresh. The fruit must be stewed. Pour a little of the sirup over the rice and heap whipped cream over the plums. The stones should be removed from the fruit and the kernels simmered ten minutes in a little thin sirup and then mixed with the fruit.

Peaches With Tapioca.—Take a half dozen good sized peaches, peel, stone and slice these. Heat one and a half cupfuls of water in a double boiler, add salt and stir in a quarter cupful of tapioca. Boil until clear, then pour the peaches with juice into a well buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with four tablespoonfuls of sugar, then pour on the hot tapioca. Bake for about twenty-five minutes, but do not let the top brown. This will keep for several days. If baked in too small a quantity it does not do as well.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THERE IS NO WASTE.

Nothing is ever lost.

When you burn a piece of coal in your stove you merely change the shape of it. You do not destroy it—not a particle of it.

The coal is changed into flame and smoke, into gases and ashes, but nothing that was in the coal is lost by the process of combustion. It all exists in one form or another. Nothing is lost.

It must be so, else by our activities and enterprises we would soon burn up the world on which we live.

In so far as science can determine all matter is immortal. Nothing new is created, and nothing is destroyed. Man has the power to change and use matter, but he can neither create nor demolish, not even so much as a grain of dust.

You can boil water and change it into steam or you may condense steam and change it into water, but you cannot annihilate either water or steam.

Nothing in the physical world is ever lost, and nothing in the spiritual world is ever lost.

A deed of kindness cannot be destroyed. It persists. A work of love once begun never dies. An act of sacrifice cannot be annihilated. Devotion is indestructible.

But you say, "The child I loved and lost—that is loss, and only loss."

No!

The beauty and the power of that child's life are not lost. It lives in you and in others. And the love you had for the child persists in another form—in sympathy and kindness and devotion to other children.

Things spiritual cannot be killed. Like matter, spirit is indestructible. It continues. Its form may be changed, but it is immortal.

Kindness, devotion to family, to children, to friends; justice to all, charity toward all, generosity, helpfulness—these will last forever.

In the spiritual as in the physical realm there is no waste. All is utilized. You never had a good thought nor did a good thing that was useless. Somewhere, somehow, it is of use.

And so what matters it if the world does not know and never praises? What matters it if you have wrought and suffered in silence.

Nothing of yours is lost. You are a contributor to the forces that live forever, the sum total of which is the universe.

A gentleman writes me: "I was greatly interested in your article describing the Kauffman case of serious disease of the kidneys. The description of his case exactly outlines my condition. I am sure if Peruna cured him as you say, it would cure me also. I am losing flesh rapidly and the doctors say I have every symptom of Bright's disease of the kidneys. If you think I would be benefited by Peruna I will certainly try some as the doctors have practically given me up, the same as they did him."

In reply I wish to say, first, that I never make any promises as to what Peruna will cure. No physician can make positive statements of that sort. I can say this much, however, if I were in your place I should certainly give Peruna a trial. I know of no other remedy that would be so likely to be of use to you in your present condition as Peruna. Take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bedtime. Continue this for two or three weeks and then if there is anything you wish to ask me further write me and I will give your letter prompt attention.

If I find that the Peruna is not helping you I will be perfectly frank and tell you so, for I would not have you take Peruna unless it was really helping you. But it has rescued so many cases of kidney disease that I am quite confident you will find it exactly suited to your case.

Kidney disease begins with catarrh of the kidneys. Peruna is a catarrh remedy. Unless the destruction of the kidneys is already too great Peruna relieves the catarrh and the cause of the kidney disease is removed.

I shall anxiously await a report of your case. Remember, all letters are sacredly confidential. I never use any one's name or address without his written consent. My correspondence is absolutely private. PERUNA IS FOR SALE AT ALL DRUG STORES.

SPECIAL NOTICE—Many persons are making inquiries for the old-time Peruna. To such would say, this formula is now put out under the name of KA-TAI-NO, manufactured by KA-TAI-NO Company, Columbus, Ohio. Write them and they will be pleased to send you a free booklet.

ANNA BELLE MARJORIE AND JACK GO MASKING

Dear Friends:—We have our masks left from Halloween and the other night Marjorie suggested that we mask. Harold was visiting at Grandma's, so he went with us. Jack wanted to invite Willie on to go, but I thought maybe it wouldn't be best prior to Jack and I decided to go by ourselves. We went to all the neighbors and when someone would come to the door in response to our knock we would tell them that we were poor people who had lost our money and wanted something to eat very bad. Everybody our joke dandy except an old couple down the road who have lived alone ever since we have known them. They haven't any children and when we knocked at their door the old man came to the door and when we were standing there he slammed the door in our faces and said, "You young uns think you're smart don't you? I don't think that was very nice, do you?" We went away because we thought they were a lonely couple and maybe we could bring some happiness into their lives. I am fairly swamped with requests for SEWING SOCIETY Certificates of Membership so you will have to pardon any delay in getting them if you have already written for it. One of my aunts who is president of a SOCIETY in her town wrote me a Certificate and said she hoped to want several more soon. Have you written for yours yet?
Why don't you sit down right now and do so,
and get a two-cent stamp for postage. My I'm so glad that our Sewing Society is growing so fast and strong. I know you are. Address me care this paper.
I'll write real soon or better still, right now
I'm loving.

SEE-SAW THIS SEE-SAW

This interesting See-Saw Toy can be made very realistic by cutting out the figures and board and pasting them on heavy cardboard. Then cut out the stand and bend down the flap on top so it sets level. Now place the board (or plank) on the stand and put a pin through the black dot in center of the board so that the pin extends through the black dot in the stand. The boy and girl are now ready to see-saw if you will tip the ends of the plank up and down with your hand. If the figures don't seem to sit up straight bend them so that they do so.

A DANDY WINDMILL

Our windmill will cause a lot of fun if you will cut out the large square on the left and cut down from each corner on the dotted lines as far as the dotted lines extend. Now bend over each corner that contains a black dot so that the black dot falls directly over the black dot in the center of the square. Then after you are sure all the dots are over each other place a pin through them and the windmill is finished. You now make it easy to run by pinning the windmill to the end of a stick, and when you run about the room or on the pavement the windmill will turn very rapidly, making a great variety of colors as it revolves.
